EXPANSION OF HOT POINT MEANS THE ADVANCEMENT OF THIS LOCALITY

EDISON BRANCH AT ONTARIO HAS MADE GOOD ON A BUSINESS BASIS

Recently Complimented by Well-known Worker on Conduct of Its Factory. Hotpointers Contented and Happy.

This entire section and Ontario in particular are delighted in the announcement made Saturday that the Hotpoint is to expand, for there probably isn't a community within five miles of Ontario but that has many of her people employed at the big plant.

The executive committee of the Edison Electric Appliance Company is composed of business men back in Chicago who decided this thing on a scientific, business like basis. In short, the Ontario plant has made good. Several years ago the Hotpoint, General Electric and Hughes companies merged into the Edison Electric Appliance Company. Since that time the Ontario and other plants in the company have been on probation, so to speak. They have had the acid test of scientific business efficiency applied to them by experts. And, the loyalty and efficiency of the Ontario organization has produced results that won for Ontario not only the permanency of the plant but its expansion too.

The land leased from the Salt Lake railroad lies between the present plant and the Salt Lake tracks. It takes in practically two city blocks between Lemon and Cherry avenue. Construction on the block between Lemon and Plum will begin soon. Ultimately the new building will run from Lemon straight thru to Cherry, as the Salt Lake owns all the land adjoining its tracks. Plum avenue having been closed by the board of trustees sixteen years ago and its use has been only by courtesy of the Salt Lake, revocable at any time.

Expansion Necessary

This expansion is absolutely necessary to take care of increasing business. The working force is now handicapped by lack of room. Day and night shifts are running in many departments. The new buildings will be factory construction similar to the latest additions to the plant.

It is not so many years ago that E. H. Richardson was superintendent of the Ontario Power Company, and during that time became interested in what was then called the Packing House Equipment Company which operated a plant here supplying fruit packing houses with their interior equipment.

Along about this time Mr. Richardson was carrying on numerous experiments and while he invented numerous electric stoves, ovens, etc., the invention that became famous was the Hotpoint iron. The housewife knows that unless an iron has a hot point it's really of very little value. Other inventors of electric irons had failed in their efforts to make the point as hot as other parts

IS KNOWN AS ONE OF BEST PRODUCING GROVES IN CUCAMONGA

Bought by Altman and Clark, Who Make Their Homes in Upland. Sold by Estate to Mr. Potter Two Years Ago.

Although there is a procession of house and lot sales going on daily, once in awhile a deal of unusual interest and of unusual proportions shows up and this week among the many deals made looms up the sale of the forty-acre McKinley grove of Cucamonga, which has been sold for cash to Messrs. Clark and Altman. Mr. Clark comes here from Washington and Mr. Altman is from Iowa. Mr. Clark has also purchased a ten-acre grove at the corner of Campus avenue and Tenth street.

The McKinley grove is one of the finest groves in the Cucamonga territory and its history is excellent for production of fruit. The McKinley estate sold the grove to E. D. Potter of Los Angeles two years ago. Mr. Potter selling to Messrs. Clark and Altman.

POLICE COURT GRIND EXCEEDING FINE

In the case of Nagel versus Snow which was tried before Judge Geo. R. Crane last week the decision of the court was that neither defendant nor plaintiff had judgment and each were ordered to pay own costs.

Mountain avenue, the finest driveway in the South, is nevertheless a temptation to motorists and it is hard to hold one's auto from running away when on that western avenue. On Sunday Officer Craigmiles stopped N. E. Thompson of Alhambra as he was driving thirty-eight miles an hour at Fourteenth street and requested him to appear before Judge Crane within the next few days. Willard Isaacs of Los Angeles had the same experience only he had just arrived at Sixteenth street when halted by the speed officer. Both speeders will be here to answer for themselves on or before the last day of this month.

When L. A. Sowers of Pasadena tried to turn on Twelfth street near Euclid avenue last Sunday morning he ran directly into the car being driven west on the highway by Dr. W. O. Taylor of San Bernardino, the result being that Dr. Taylor's machine was jammed against the curb and seriously damaged. It was taken to the Tenth Street Garage for repairs. Mr. Sowers proceeding on his way with an uninjured car.

POSTOFFICE HOLIDAY NOTICE, CHRISTMAS DAY

The mail will be distributed in the boxes, and all mail will be dispatched as usual on week days. The rural carrier will make deliveries on the rural route same as on other days.

ORDER SIDEWALKS FOR EIGHTH AVE.

OFFICER SAWYER ASKS FOR AND IS GRANTED EXTRA MEN FOR POLICE

This Part of County Supposed to Be in Zone of I. W. W. Activity. Fire Department Gets More Hoses.

Eighth avenue is putting on metropolitan style these days, the residents along that thoroughfare desiring sidewalks from Ninth street north to Tenth street. At the council meeting last night sidewalks were ordered in and property owners given six months in which to carry out the order. If the walks are not in by that time the city will put them in and charge same to the property owners. The lack of sidewalks only exists north of Washington boulevard and the majority frontage desires the walks.

Eternal Vigilance
Officer Sawyer appeared before the city council last night and asked for additional police force. Last Friday night an attempt was made

INDICATIONS ARE FOR IDEAL CHRISTMAS WEATHER---MANY HAPPY EVENTS

PAST SEVEN YEARS HAVE PRODUCED GLOOMY WEATHER

Santa Claus Will Appear in Person at Atwood's Tomorrow and Will Make Kiddies Happy Big Tree at Colonial.

Present indications are that the weather man is going to give to Southern California this year a Christmas Gift of a warm Christmas. For some seven or eight years this section has been visited at the holiday season by disagreeable weather of one brand or another.

When a Municipal Christmas tree was talked over before the city council a week or so ago members decided that the weather would

POPULATION OF 4000 IS 1920 INDICATION

FIGURES BASED ON RECENT SCHOOL CENSUS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Upland Has Family Living in Its Borders Which Numbers 23, Oldest Child Being 35 and the Youngest Two Years Old.

It looks like this town had a population of 4000 people, for there are 671 families with boys under 21 and girls under 18. There are 300 families without children. By figuring an average of four to the family of the 671 families with children, and two to the family of the 300 without children, gives Upland a population of 3284. It is probable there are some 700 boys and girls over 18 and 21 years and thus does the city and San Antonio Heights have a population of 4000 people.

The largest family in the city is that of Mr. and Mrs. Perdew who reside on Eighth avenue. "Put" Perdew was formerly a resident of Elwood but is now living in Upland. Mr. Perdew states that he has 21

LEGION TO STAGE BENEFIT JAN. 5 & 6

LOCAL POST IS PLANNING FOR ELABORATE SHOW ON THOSE DATES

Trying to Persuade Two ex-Members of "Ladies from Hell" to Take Tickets. They Ought to Be Successful.

Mark your calendar right now and hold either Monday night, January 5th, 1920, or Tuesday night, January 6th, 1920, open, for on those nights the American Legion is going to be the entertaining feature of the city. The boys have completed arrangements with the Colonial Theatre for those two nights and will stage a program, not only of pictures, but home talent will also add to the entertainment.

The exact program has not been given out but among other events will be vocal solos, vocal duets, male quartets and many other features. Upland today has two men who were with the 72nd Seaford Highlanders of Vancouver and were of that fighting regiment that treated the Germans so roughly that Heine not only learned to his sorrow how the Highlanders could fight, but dubbed them "The Ladies from Hell." Members of the Legion are trying to persuade these men that they should don their Scotch uniforms and take the tickets at the door.

WHERE TO PUT 'EM IS HIS PROBLEM

Only thing that's worrying Manager Pettingell of the Colonial nowadays is, "what in tarnation he is going to do for room." Christmas night when he stages that great Christmas tree celebration, of which we wrote in last issue, however, even if you can find a single man, woman or child in this whole section who hasn't fully made up his or her mind to be on hand that evening, we want to hear of them. There will be a "regular" crowd—you may depend upon that. This is a really glad Christmas time; there is peace in most parts of the world—barring, perhaps, the United States Senate—and every one is just getting their mouth fixed to enjoy a real Christmas dinner, and day. And it naturally follows, too, that every one will want to attend the show that night, and also to "try their luck" on the drawing of the magical coupons.

Any one of the items donated by the various merchants, as prizes, is well worth the getting, as you will have seen by a glance into the various windows. Many folks will want to be in line for the big drawing. Manager Pettingell has served fair notice—the first come, first served, as to seats, and so it's up to you, boys and girls, both old and young, to heed the warning. The line will start to form early, be in at the start, and get your favorite seat. The affair is creating a great deal of interest, and has proven a splendid advertisement for the community.

HERE'S THE WAY THE MAIN STREET OF UPLAND LOOKED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Here's the way the main street of Upland looked twenty-five years ago when trees, telephone poles, signs, wooden awnings and a hundred and one other things gave the business district the appearance of a frontier village. Fire, together with the forward trend of the times, gradually improved the business district until today with our paved roadway, ornamental lighting system and modern buildings, Upland has the reputation of being the little town with all the big-city advantages and conveniences.

THE CHILDREN WAITING FOR SANTA CLAUS

"Twas the Day Before Christmas," 1917, when the children gathered at Atwood's Store to welcome Santa Claus to the city. He arrives tomorrow morning at 9:30 to burn the business district of San Bernardino, the arsonists being of the I. W. W. element. The orange belt is supposed to be on the program of the I. W. W.'s, and Officer Sawyer is taking every precaution against any destructive work being carried on here. The council granted Mr. Sawyer's request.

More Hoses

Fire Chief E. C. Mohl appeared before the council relative to additional hose for the fire department and an order for 400 feet was granted him. Mr. Mohl states that though the overhauling of Upland's fire truck and the installation of the booster pump has been somewhat delayed, within a short time the equipment will be ready for use. Wednesday will probably witness the first test of the new equipment when the members of the fire department, members of the city council and city officials will watch the new equipment in action. The booster pump assures a fire fighting force no matter what the pressure on the water mains may be. If there is a drop of water in the mains the booster pump will get that drop and when a fire occurs away from the mains and where a water box can be used, the firemen will be able to put a fire to rout in a hurry.

DIES AS ACCIDENT RESULT

Mr. W. O. Chaffee of 442 Second avenue died last Saturday from injuries received in a motor accident a few days previously, when the car in which he was driving, belonging to Willis Odom of Ontario, clashed with a milk truck driven by A. R. Page of Chino and owned by M. Anderson of Pomona.

At the inquest held at Draper's parlors in Ontario before Coroner J. B. Hanna all parties connected with the accident were fully exonerated by the jury who returned a verdict of death from injuries received in a motor collision.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at the Chaffee residence, the Rev. Charles Kent officiating. The remains were sent to Warren, Ohio, for burial.

Mr. Chaffee was 59 years of age and came to Upland seven years ago from Burton, Ohio. He leaves a widow and many friends to feel keen regret at his sudden death.

probably be disagreeable and abandoned the idea, but like the personality of things inanimate, the weather looks good for Christmas Day.

The first of the Christmas festivities takes place at the churches here tonight, the Methodist Sunday school holding its Christmas program in the church, commencing at 7:30 p. m.

The Christmas exercises of the Presbyterian church are to be held in the Presbyterian church at the same time and the kiddies are all looking forward to a delightful time while the parents will be more than proud of the children as they take their parts in the program.

Santa Claus at Atwood's

The main event of tomorrow will be Santa Claus' coming to Atwood's store. This is an annual event and the youngsters of the city are all ready to attend and promptly at 9:30 a. m. there will be a crowd in front of Atwood's store which will look somewhat like the crowd of 1917 as shown in the cut appearing herewith. Following the coming of Santa Claus at the big store, Santa himself will present to each youngster a gift.

Christmas Eve

Christmas Eve will be a busy one in the homes of the city, for the children ranging in age from 35 years down to two years. Mr. and Mrs. Perdew and the children as well enjoy the best of health and if Theodore Roosevelt had ever met them he certainly would have said, "I'm delighted to meet all of you."

filling of the stockings and preparation for making Christmas morning a delightful one for the children will be the order of things. Christmas day brings with it many happy events, foremost among them being the dinner. The weather being ideal California's good roads invite you for a pleasure ride and many journeys will be made to the seashore and the mountains, while those who enjoy a walk will have ideal conditions for their trips.

Christmas night will be another entertaining occasion, for along with the numerous parties in the homes of the city the Colonial Theatre has a program which will in a way make up for the lack of a Municipal Christmas tree. An excellent film production is to be shown and the big Christmas tree is to be laden with gifts and Santa Claus will be there to present them to those holding the coupons.

The regular dancing party is to be held Thursday night at Rudy hall and Manager Sikes has arranged an excellent program for those who enjoy the dance, together with a Christmas tree and a gift for each dancer.

Little Journeys to Los Angeles

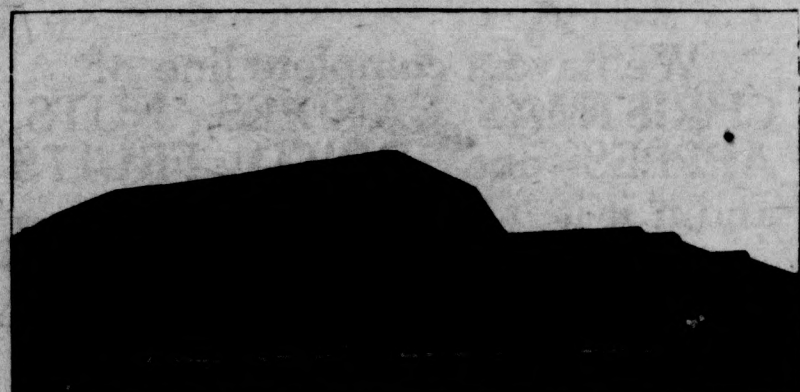

Say, Bill—

A friend of mine told me a fellow told him that he went to Los Angeles the other day—the day there were so many people on the streets—and that as he was making the turn at Sixth and Broadway to go to Hill street, and pushing and crowding, he felt something soft crush under his foot which he felt was a woman's toe. He started to take off his hat and turn around and apologize when he heard this—"My Gawd!! How awkward some folks be!"

He said he didn't apologize—he just kept on going.

LEMON GROWERS EXCHANGE TO DOUBLE ITS PRESENT PACKING HOUSE CAPACITY

The Lemon Growers Exchange building is to have a twin sister within a few weeks and when the new building is complete Upland can boast the largest lemon, curing, packing and shipping institution in the world. The large increase of business necessitated the move and the new house will just double the present capacity of the Lemon Growers and it is believed by the directors and Manager Bradley that the new house will care for the business for many years to come. To the west and north of Upland's residential section are hundreds of acres and we are destined to become one of the most extensive lemon growing communities in Southern California. The new house is to be located opposite the present house, just south of the Satna Fe, in the former George Barlow orange grove.

Raise Your Calves on this World-Famed Milk-Substitute

BLATCHFORD'S CALF MEAL is the original milk-substitute. It was the first on the market. For over one-third of a century it has been successfully used in raising calves by the most progressive farmers and dairy men in this country. It is the only calf meal backed by so remarkable a record.

Blatchford's CALF MEAL

The success of this milk-substitute is due to three things. First—its quality. Blatchford's is above all a quality calf meal. Only the best materials are used in its manufacture. It contains no waste materials or by-products of low feeding value. Second—it contains all the nutritive and growth-producing properties required by the calf. The finest and healthiest of calves can be raised upon it. Third—it is economical. A pound makes a gallon of pure milk-substitute and it can be used at less than half the cost of using milk.

Blatchford's Calf Meal raises calves from babyhood. It is extremely palatable. It is easy to feed. It saves both milk and money. It will pay you to use it.

Caught on the First Bounce

By S. M. GREENE

The old Spanish mission at Ventura is being restored, 63 years after it was damaged by an earthquake in 1856. But what is 63 years in the life of an old mission?

The Japanese current, which swerved away from the shore up Santa Barbara way, has come back again and is making the winter climate up there mild again, says the Morning Press. That's one Japanese invasion that is really welcome in California.

A huge fish cannery is planned on the shores of the Salton Sea, 169 feet below the level of the ocean. It is said that the artificial sea abounds in carp and mullet. The owners of the cannery will see to it that the low level of the sea does not affect the price of the canned product, however.

The people at Orange must like each others' looks. They're going to spend $18,000 for a brilliant lighting system.

Two teachers in the Hemet schools resigned last week to get married, says the News. It is not stated whether they weren't making enough to live on and wanted to pass the responsibility to friend husband, or whether their salaries had been so good that they had enough saved up to keep two for a while.

A feature of the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena may be a parachute race between a father and his son, from a balloon to the earth. If either one's parachute should fail to open, he would of course win the race.

Cat and dog hospitals are to be barred from Los Angeles. Good thing cat and dog homes are not also to be barred, or the population would take an awful slump.

When the San Bernardino Orange Show held each February encounters a frosty year it almost proves to be a lemon but this year it promises to be a peach. It is to be held at Urbana Park, and besides the golden oceans of oranges on display, there will be a water pageant, and shapely diving girls and editors from all over Southern California in annual convention. That is, the editors will be in annual convention. What the diving girls will be in will hardly be worth mentioning.

In a divorce suit tried at Orange the other day, according to the Santa Ana Register, the wife charged the husband with treating her in a cruel and inhuman manner by not bathing often enough. That's the first time we have ever heard it charged that lack of enthusiasm for a bath was cruel and inhuman on the part of a man. We always supposed it was an inalienable right of a boy or a man to get out of bathing as often as he could. This charge on the part of the Orange woman puts a new phase on the importance of soap as a lubricant in the routine of domestic happiness. There may be some close relationship between lye and love that men have not known before.

A man's affection for a bath tub may determine the degree of a woman's affection for him. Men have always had the idea that bathing was merely one of the trials of life, to be overcome if possible, otherwise to be submitted to with the hope of better conditions in the next world. To be confronted now with the thought that bathing may become a necessary qualification for keeping a wife, when men have always thought that they got married so as to be able to do as they pleased, and to escape some of the things their mother made them do when they were boys, is an awful condition to cogitate upon. And to think that when women get into the full swing of suffrage, the marriage code might be changed to "Protect, cherish and take frequent baths," is terrible to contemplate. We hope the report from Orange is an exaggeration, and that the outlook is not nearly so bad as indicated.

San Pedro is deeply peeved because even her name is to be taken away from her, now that she has been swallowed by Los Angeles long enough to allow digestion. But why the delayed wait? She offered herself voluntarily some years ago as a choice bite for the big city, and it comes with poor grace now if she kicks on being properly assimilated.

The supreme court ruling on wartime prohibition did not affect the name of the sheriff at El Centro, whose moniker is Applestill.

A preacher at Van Nuys is named Beller, but even at that he may not.

A grocer at Cucamonga stepped from a moving bus the other day and got a bad fall, and afterward said that he had no recollection of getting out of the bus. There are a good many grocers riding to a bad fall in the profiteering line just now too, so government officers say, who will have a hard time explaining just why they did it.

Luther Burbank of Santa Rosa is the wizard of plant life. He now is undertaking to evolve a new mulberry plant for the Japanese silk producers, which will have larger leaves for the silk worms as well as save time wasted in crawling from one leaf to another. He promises to have the new plant evolved and ready for delivery in four years. Now if Luther could only take a sprig off the tree of the Golden Rule for employers and a piece of the root of common horse sense for employees and graft them together so as to produce a manufacturing plant that would run without discontent and strikes and lockouts he would be far more of a wizard than he ever will be by merely producing new vegetable plants. The man who can evolve that kind of a plant is the one the whole world is waiting for right now.

When Wrigley gets his new chewing gum factory out here to going, and his island all fixed up, and his new boat line to running, it won't be hard to guess what will be sold on the boats to still the surging stomachs of the passengers. There will be little else to chew.

Some of the girls up around Ontario are thinking of organizing a painters' union.

The Paso Robles Star tells of the removal of one of the old-time wooden awnings in front of a store there, in compliance with a new city ordinance. Towns and cities

"The Happiest Christmas which You Have Had for Many a Year"

This is our Yule-tide greeting—and there are so many reasons why it seems especially appropriate.

Last year, deliverance from war gave the season more of the Christmas spirit than had been possible during four years of world strife.

This year, there is a realization that much of the stress of after-the-war reaction is passing and that we are to emerge at last into a world stronger in the practice of those expressions of brotherhood which underlie the feeling of Christmas.

It is fitting then that all rejoice at this Christmas-tide, and to this end we join with you as with all of our friends, and with the people of this entire community, in the TRUE SPIRIT of the season.

Again, let us wish you a joyous Christmas and a New Year of happiness and of hopes fulfilled.

JUSTICE B. STRONG

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW
SAN BERNARDINO, CALIFORNIA

Dear Nephew Lem:

You are all right, Lem! First you buy a tractor to lighten your work, then you buy more land to keep it busy! I shall recommend you for the Hoover Medal for Food Production!

You ask whether you should accept an abstract of title with the deed, or whether there is anything better than an abstract.

I do not want to criticize the abstract of title, because it has served the American land owner long and faithfully, and it is still in use in many parts of our country. Californians are fortunate, however, in that the business of searching, examining and insuring land titles has come to its highest development in this state.

An abstract is just what the name implies. It is a brief statement of the vital elements in each deed, mortgage, and all other instruments found on the public records which affect the title to the property in question either directly or indirectly.

When the abstract is completed it is submitted to an attorney selected by the purchaser or lender for examination. The attorney gives to his client his opinion as to the merchantability of the title, as shown by the abstract. Sometimes different attorneys give differing opinions. I have known of many expensive legal conflicts as a result.

I do not mean to say that abstracts of title, when prepared by skilled and reliable abstractors possessing complete and up-to-date abstract plants, accompanied by the opinion of a specialist in real property law, are not good as far as they go; but they do not go far enough.

When you buy a piece of farm machinery you always buy the best. Experience has shown you that the best is the cheapest in the long-run. That principle holds good with titles just as it does with plows and tractors.

TITLE INSURANCE is the complete answer to your question. In these days you do not have to take anybody's opinion about the title you intend to buy, or accept as security.

I am a believer in title insurance, just as I am a believer in life insurance, and in fire insurance, and in any other modern application of the principle of insurance.

Affectionately, your uncle,

MEXICAN IDEA-OF CREATION

Maya-Quiche Scripture Resembles in Marked Degree That Handed Down by Other Peoples.

The true indigenous civilization of Mexico—the Maya-Quiche, so named from its foremost peoples, still numerous and robust—has its authentic scripture in the Quiche tongue, the Popol Vuh, unearthed by Padre Ximenez about 1675, and printed in full, with an interleaved French translation by the Abbe Basseur de Bourbourg in 1885, according to an article by Charles Johnston, in the Atlantic monthly.

The scripture's cosmogony begins with universal night—what the Sanskrit scriptures call the night of Brahma—when darkness was upon the waters. Then follows the development of worlds, first formed like thin cloud-wreaths in the abyss, and gradually hardening into hills and plains, under the formative will of "the Creator, the Moulder, Heart of the Heavens, Heart of the Earth." Then beasts and birds are formed. But, although they have voices, they have no articulate speech: they can not invoke their Creator, or call upon the Heart of Heavens in prayer.

Therefore the Divine Powers set themselves to make man, who can pray and praise the Creator, so the Divine Powers may receive adoration from their handiwork. Two races are made only to fail; men formed of wet clay, who melt and dissolve, and the manikins, whose hearts are hard and who can not worship. At last a race, intelligent, reverent, full of a penetrating wisdom that sees all things in the heavens as well as on earth, is brought into being. This perfect race renders praise and glory to the Creator.

SPEED OF EPIDEMIC VARIES

Diseases Travel According to the Modes of Transportation in the Regions Afflicted.

The speed at which an epidemic—whether it be of influenza or any other infectious disease—spreads depends upon the rapidity of the usual means of transportation. In his presidential address at the congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, Dr. Simon Flexner said:

"In eastern Russia and Turkestan influenza spreads with the pace of a caravan, in Europe and America with the speed of an express train, and in the world at large with the rapidity of an ocean liner; and if one project forward the outcome of the means of intercommunication of the near future we may predict that the next pandemic, should one arise, will extend with the swiftness of the airship. Moreover, not only is this rate of spread determined by the nature of the transportation facilities of the region or the era, but towns and villages, mainland and island, are invaded early or late or preserved entirely from attack according as they lie within or without the avenues of approach or are protected by inaccessibility, as in instances of remote mountain settlements and of islands distant from the ocean lanes or frozen in during winter periods."

Tin.

Tin is a mineral the same as iron and lead. It is not made in the sense that brass is made of other metals. The principal countries that supply tin are the East Indies, the islands of Banca, Billiton and Sumatra, the Malay peninsula, Australia, Bolivia and Cornwall, England. Most of the ore from the East Indies and the Malay peninsula is obtained by washing alluvial gravels. There are also mines in Saxony, Bohemia, Russia, Spain, Portugal and Japan, but the total output of these countries is insignificant. The presence of tin deposits in California, Texas, South Dakota, and North Carolina has been known for a long time, but up to this time there has been no mining on a commercial scale.

Islanders Pay No Taxes.

Those who have read "Westward Ho!" remember Lundy island, which lies in the English channel. It is one of the best known of the many islands of Britain. It is a delightful little island that was once the haunt of pirates and smugglers. It was once captured by French pirates, and later fell into the hands of Turkish privateers. While the island may not be the real paradise of man, it is actually owned by the Heaven family. A clergyman by that name rules over a kingdom of 1,200 acres and fewer than 500 souls. No one can dwell on this island without the consent of the owner. It is declared, in the deed from the British crown, to be forever free from taxation.

Ostend Manifesto.

On the eighteenth of October in 1854, the Ostend manifesto was drawn up. The slavery leaders in the United States were in favor of annexing the island of Cuba. In President Polk's administration $100,000,000 was offered Spain as a purchase price, but refused. President Pierce sent Buchanan, United States minister at London, to Ostend to confer on the question with Mason, minister to Paris and Soule, minister at Madrid. The manifesto of Ostend was the result. This extraordinary document declared that the Union could not be secure unless Cuba was annexed, and that Cuba, if not annexed, would become Africanized and "endanger" the United States. The advent of the Civil war ended the controversy.

Down at Anaheim several offenders against the law have been given suspended sentences lately. A suspended sentence is a pretty serious sort of a sentence, if the suspending is by the neck.

No matter what effect it may have on the high cost of living, we are compelled to note that there is a family at Redondo named Cakebread.

CITY HAS VARIED HISTORY

Trau, Situated on Small Island in the Adriatic Sea, Is Place of Unusual Interest.

Trau is a little city, on a little island, in the Adriatic sea. Trau is the Greek name for watermelon, which is the shape of the island, but the people claim that the name is a derivation of Traghion, whence the Greeks came to Trau in 380 B. C. Many fascinating fictions are fixed beliefs in the minds of the natives of the island. They believe a cypress bush was miraculously planted to shelter a statue of the city's patron saint, Giovanni Orsini, and that the same saint's spirit nourishes it. They also believe that the book which the Lion of St. Mark holds was snapped shut when Venice relinquished the island, rather than that the statue was carved that way. The town has less than 20,000 population and fairly breathes a medieval spirit. The houses are built so close together that vehicle traffic is almost impossible, and the streets are so crooked that pedestrians find difficulty getting around. This was because of military necessity at the time the artistic little city was created.

The father of the Dalmation history, Giovanni Lucio, was born there. King Bela IV fled there after the Tartars overran his country, but continued to reside there when the invincible city was besieged, although it did not fall. Byzantines, Huns, Franks, Genoese and Venetians fought for Trau, the Saracens looted it, Napoleon took it in 1806, and the Austrians gained it seven years later.

MEXICAN OPALS IN DEMAND

Even With Primitive Methods, Our Southern Neighbors Dig Beautiful Stones From Their Mines.

The Queretaro district is the chief source of supply of Mexican opals. All the mines are owned by Mexicans. No foreign capital is invested. Old-fashioned methods of mining are employed and activity is desultory. If prices are good, work becomes feverish. If prices drop off, few opals are mined.

Most of the best quality stones go to Mexico City. Dealers there market them in other countries. The poorer grades are sold in little shops throughout Mexico or are peddled to tourists at railway stations. Thousands of these cheap opals are sold in towns along the border in the United States. They can be bought for from 80 cents up.

It is this cheap grade of stones that has given Mexican opals a poor reputation among jewelry buyers. The fact is, a fine Mexican opal is a beautiful gem. It differs from Australian opals in that the latter are usually opaque to transmit light, whereas Mexican opals are usually clear. To bring out the soft play of colors in a Mexican stone, artificial backs are often used in setting the gems. Many are backed with their own genuine matrix. The better class of Mexican opals is not so expensive as the Australian or those imported from the famous mines of Australia, but they are far from cheap.

Superstitious Londoners.

In London there is said to be a deep-seated belief among East end girls in the efficacy of dragon's-blood as a love-philtre. Touching on the same subject, a Whitechapel herbalist relates how a girl, after buying some tormentil root of his, volunteered the information that, having been flitted by her young man, she consulted a "wise woman," who told her to get a bunch of tormentil and burn it at midnight on a Friday. The faithless one would then revert to his allegiance. On three successive Saturdays she returned for fresh supplies of the root, when either the charm worked or she grew tired of it, as she ceased her purchases. Mandrake, too, is largely purchased by superstitious cockneys. Every Sunday at a pitch by Petticoat lane a hawkier does a profitable trade in slices of mandrake, which, he assures his audience, will cure everything. On his barrow are a few roots carefully selected for their resemblance to the human form. "Gathered at midnight," he shouts, "and they screamed terrible when pulled out of the ground."

Apes Have Poor Sight.

"Apes are frequently short-sighted and require spectacles as much as human beings do." This is a statement of Prof. Behr, of Kiel.

The professor placed 25 monkeys in a darkened room and after a careful eye inspection found that 18 of the animals suffered from myopia (short sight) in a high degree. The behavior of these monkeys was entirely similar to that of short-sighted human beings in a similar environment.

They approached objects lying on the ground with bowed head and bent back and finally they grasped the articles in their paws and held them close to the eyes to obtain a better view.

A microscopic examination of the eye pupils disclosed that among the monkeys the myopic condition was inherited.

A Slight Jar.

"The professor seems a trifle cast down."

"Just a little flabbergasted. He uses very correct English."

"And a slangy salesgirl had to call a floorwalker to interpret for her. Thought the professor was some kind of a foreigner."—Kansas City Journal.

A Los Angeles man who had lived with his wife for twenty-three years secured a divorce from her the other day because she had discovered, in a new philosophy she was studying, that his vibrations did not harmonize with hers. What that kind of a woman needed was not a mate with harmonious vibrations, but a mate with a good wallop.

SOCIETYSurprise Shower Party—

Miss Janet Hohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hohl, of West H street, Ontario, whose marriage to Mr. Francis Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rogers of this city will occur on Christmas night, was guest of honor at a surprise shower party given by Miss Frances Mueller at the Mueller residence in Ontario last Friday evening. Dancing, to the strains of Victrola music, was enjoyed by the guests and at eleven o'clock the dining room doors were opened, disclosing an artistically decorated supper table with a large wedding bell of smilax and purple violets and fascinating kewpie place cards. Candles cast a soft glow over the charming appointments and the guests, all girls, friends from Claremont, Ontario and Upland, were served a delicious three course supper. Miss Hohl was then given a shower of dainty and useful household gifts, and the evening's fun was brought to a close amid many good wishes for the future happiness of the bride and groom to be.

The guests included Miss Janet Hohl, Miss Gladys Hohl, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Gene Loba, Miss Georgia Loba, Miss Lois Campbell, Miss Nora Leaky, Miss Viola Polster, Miss Gertrude Bredfeldt, Miss Lucille Joss, Miss Joye Biggs, Miss Constance Hoover, Miss Daggs, Miss Marion Campbell, Mrs. Fred Alford and Mrs. Hobart Alter.

Musical Party—

A very delightful musical party was given by Miss Bertha Palmer on Saturday afternoon to her younger class of pupils at her home on First avenue. The rooms were gaily decorated in Christmas colors of red and green. One of the interesting events of the afternoon was the closing of the practice contest which had been started in September, the prize, a plaster cast of Mozart, was won by Orville Krehbiel. Miss Palmer gave a talk on the life of Mozart, who is regarded as the Christmas musician, his birth and death occurring at this time. The children present were Dorothy Shingler, Margaret Troeller, Carroll Dart, Marian Holden, Dorothy Thompson, Ruth Rosebaum, Ethel Regan, Lola Nafel, Ida Vernon, Virgil Holden, Wilbur Thompson and Orville Krehbiel.

Annual Installation—

The annual installation of officers of the Order of the Eastern Star took place yesterday evening, amid a large gathering of visitors from Los Angeles, Ontario, and Upland. The installing officers were Elizabeth B. Wheeler, presiding officer, past most worthy grand marshal and past grand matron of California; Mrs. Stannard Chaplain, past grand matron, who acted as chaplain, and Inez J. Hawthorn, who acted as grand marshal. Following the installation very interesting speeches were made by the grand officers and a vocal solo, "The Star of the East," was sung by Mrs. Inez Hawthorn. The beauty and dignity of the installation was greatly enhanced by the musical selections played by Mrs. Helene T. Monroe during the proceedings. Past Matron Eva Belle Pehl, who had just been installed as present matron, was presented with the matron's jewel, a dainty jeweled pin given by the local chapter, by Grand Patron Robert R. Wisely, to which she responded in a few gracefully expressed words of thanks. Gifts were also presented to the installing officer, Elizabeth B. Wheeler, who responded in a very happy manner. Seventy guests were present, among them being W. Vaughn Scott, grand associate patron, and his wife, who is worthy matron of Oriental Chapter, Los Angeles, and Mrs. MacGill, worthy matron of Euclid Chapter, Ontario, with several of her members. The decorations were extremely artistic, a Christmas tree brilliantly lighted forming a pretty center attraction. Refreshments were served to the guests and the evening ended with expressions of keen appreciation of one of the prettiest installations ever witnessed.

CHRISTMAS VACATION

Pomona College classes closed at noon Saturday, to convene again on Monday, January 5, and there is a general exodus of students to their homes.

The closing social event before the Christmas holidays was the reception and dance given by the senior class to the freshmen and entire college, the affair taking place Friday night in the college gymnasium with the entire student body, faculty and many alumni taking part.

A four piece orchestra from Los Angeles provided music for the dancing in the big gymnasium and in the intermission there was a reading by David Maynard and just before the last dance a Christmas skit was given. In the smaller gymnasium there was a gaily decorated Christmas tree bearing appropriate holiday refreshments for the guests and here games and stunts were provided for those who did not take part in the dancing.

CREATED DEMAND FOR APPLES

How the Distribution of Free Samples Won Big Trade for Wise Growers of Fruit.

Have you ever noticed when you drive into town with a load of apples to peddle about, or dispose of to grocers, what a hungry look that man standing upon the street nearby gives you as you pull up to the curb, and especially if you have extra fine fruits displayed in nice crates? We did, and we took a valuable lesson from the hungry look. The whole world is hungry for good apples to eat, and all the time. We used to feel sorry when we shied glances at him with the hungry look, but our apples were all weighed up in measures ready to deliver, and we must not start in handing out, or we would run short. We caught a trick one day when packing in our orchard for the market. Quite a few specimens were always found with little defects, over-ripe or bruised just a little. These apples were more than we could use up at home, and often went to waste. Next day when we took our load of apples to town, a half-bushel basket of these specimens, mellowed for ready eating, went under the seat, and everywhere we met that hungry look with a ripe apple.

And it worked better than we had suspected, for the next time we went to town with apples that hungry look met us with an order for some of our apples. Then it went still further. The grocers where we delivered apples did not find out, and we did not tell them either, that we were handing out ripe samples. It increased their trade and thereby increased the demand for more of our apples.—George Welmar Brown in Farm and Fireside.

PLEADS FOR CORDIAL GRASP

Philadelphia Newspaper Writer Voices Objection to Some Common Varieties of the Handshake.

How do you shake hands? I heard a man express himself very forcibly on the subject the other day. "If there's anything drives me wild," he said, "it's to have a woman lay her hand in mine as though it were a drink of milk and water, or a soggy pancake. If she doesn't want to shake hands, then she ought to just plain refuse. But if she does want to, why then, let her do it as though she means it."

Shaking hands is just like everything else. You can do it with your heart in the right place, or you can go through the ceremony as if your heart were about a thousand miles away. The woman who puts her hand out as though it were half a yard of handkerchief linen is the same woman who will yawn in your face when you take her to the movies, or who will tell you none in her family cares for automobile riding, when you have taken her out in the country in your car for the afternoon. Half-heartedness, all the way through!—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Molly Pitcher."

Molly Pitcher was the first woman military officer in America. It is said she served eight years and was retired as an officer on half pay. Her correct name was Molly McGuire and she was born at Carlisle, Pa., on October 13, 1744. Her biographers differ somewhat as to details, but she is described as a sturdy, red-faced Irish woman who during the battle of Monmouth was engaged in carrying water to the soldiers, and when her husband, a cannoneer, was so badly wounded that he could no longer serve his gun his wife seized the rammer and took his place, which she filled with skill and courage. Molly was presented to General Washington, who conferred upon her the commission of a sergeant. Exactly how she came to be called Molly Pitcher seems to be in doubt.

William Penn.

In 1644 on Oct. 14 William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania, was born in London. He was the son of Admiral Sir William Penn. At the age of thirty-eight he came to America and settled in Philadelphia. He was a Quaker and his humanitarian and peaceful policies were strikingly shown in his dealings with the Indians. Of all the white settlers, Penn was the only one with whom they kept faith. The Indians trusted him completely and no treaty made with them by Penn was ever broken. The Indians, it is said, never attacked one of Penn's Quaker followers. William Penn spent but a short time in America, a trifle more than four years in all, broken by a return to England. In 1701 he returned to England, where he remained until his death at Rushmore, Berkshire county.

Mineral Wealth of Persia.

Persia bids fair to become one of the richest mining countries in the world, according to the London Times, which says its mineral wealth is almost incalculable, but as yet scarcely touched. In addition to oil fields already tapped, there are others awaiting exploitation. There is much gold, lead, silver, copper and coal.

The difficulty hitherto has been with transportation, it being necessary to carry over several hundred miles over the mountains on the back of camels or mules, which ate up the profit. A very good start has, however, been made on building railroads and, as the roads are suitable for heavy motor traffic, it ought to be easy to install mining and reducing machinery.

COULDN'T REMEMBER THE CIN

ELECTRICITY MEANS FREE-DOM FOR WOMEN

Electricity means freedom to the women of this country, stated Joe King, manager of the Southern Sierras Power Co., in an interview yesterday. The housewife can make electricity do all the drudgery of the house, cleaning, washing and other burdensome and tiring work of the home.

"It seems too good to be true," exclaimed a pleased housewife when the advantages of electricity were explained to her. It is a pleasure to get out of bed these cold mornings when you can jump into the cozy glow of an electric heater, throwing off a radiant, dry heat with no smoke or gas, it's just like good old summer sunshine, and then by using electricity you can cook your own breakfast right at your own breakfast table. No jumping up or cooking over a hot stove in the kitchen. It can be done right at the table, with an electric percolator, steaming coffee just the right strength can be made in a very few moments, while the turnover toaster cooks delicious golden brown toast, piping hot, just as much as you want and just when you want it.

Perhaps Mrs. Housewife wants an omelet. With electricity it is a simple matter. At the snap of a switch, on goes the table stove and in a few minutes you have a wonderful fluffy omelet ready to serve. Or, perhaps hubby wants griddle cakes, sausage, bacon, eggs or steak. It all can be electrically cooked easily and quickly at your own place at the table, just done right to suit every one—always hot.

It used to be a nightmare for the housewife to think of the old-time house cleaning days. Now with electricity it is a pleasure. The modern vacuum cleaner sucks in the dirt out of the cracks and around the corners, cleans the curtains and the rugs, and the hardwood floors, too, without raising any dust, and only costs a few cents to clean the whole house. Then when washday comes, all the drudgery of the old time scrub-boards is over for electricity has taken its place. It is a simple matter now to wash the family's washing these days with a modern electric washing machine. At the snap of the switch the washer starts and scientifically washes the clothes. The water is washed through the clothes and washes them snowy white. Then with the electrically driven wringer, it is a simple matter to rinse and wring out the clothes and the day's washing is done before you realize it.

Electricity again steps in and helps Mrs. Housewife with her Christmas sewing. With a small electric sewing machine, all the labor is taken out of sewing and it is truly Mayday pleasure. The slight pressure of the foot regulates the speed ever so slow or very fast. Mrs. Housewife can finish her day's sewing in half the time without even tiring her out.

If Mrs. Housewife wants to go to the theater in the afternoon, she need not think of dinner, for electricity will see that this is cooked automatically for her.

All she has to do is to put her meat and vegetables in her electric range before she leaves and sets the automatic clock by the time she wishes her dinner to start to cook. Then she regulates the heat at which she wishes the food to cook and goes to the theater to enjoy herself.

When she comes home at dinner-time the food is all cooked and steaming hot and ready to serve on the table, for the automatic clock has started the electricity to heat the oven and when it gets up to the temperature at which she desired to cook the food, the electricity is automatically shut off, thus cutting down expense and the food cooks on the fireless cooked principle.

Yes, electricity means freedom to the women. You owe it to yourself to call at one of the electrical merchant stores and see these wonderful devices demonstrated.

In case your dealer is sold out of the particular appliance you desire, ask him for an electrical merchant-disorder. Mail that to your friend, the dealer can make delivery at an early date.

TO ALLAY PAIN OF STINGS

Use of Ammonia to Be Avoided in the Case of an Attack by an Insect-Wasp.

Ammonia promptly applied when a bee stings you prevents serious consequences and allays pain. It has generally been supposed that this was true also of wasp stings; but Edward R. Speyer, an Oxford university specialist, points out in a letter to the London Times that the application of ammonia or any other alkali to a wasp sting makes it worse.

The reason is that the poison of a bee's sting is acid; that of a wasp's sting is alkaline. Hence alkalies, like ammonia, neutralize the acid of the bee's sting, but aggravate the toxic effects of the wasp's alkaline sting.

The best thing to apply to a wasp's sting is vinegar, being the nearest acid in domestic service. Onion juice, lemon juice, or any other handy acid will do as well.

The Lancet says these facts ought to be widely known. "For not uncommonly the sting proves to be not a simple puncture but the beginning of a toxic process sometimes fatal. A wasp sting on the moist mucosa, as in the mouth, invariably leads to serious inflammation, with most distressing results. If the simple gargling or washing of the attacked spot with an acid fluid in such a case keeps down the swelling lives may well be saved."

CAUGHT ON FIRST BOUNCE

generally seem to want to remove all kinds of permanent awnings from in front of stores, but at the risk of being thought old-fashioned and queer, we'd like to know what was the matter with them, and how the new fangled cloth awnings of fifty different shapes and heights, some so low that they knock your hat off every time you try to walk under them, are in any way superior to the old permanent wooden awnings that were water proof, and that extended out to cover the whole sidewalk? In hot sunny weather as well as in stormy weather the permanent awnings were more useful, as they made of the sidewalk a covered avenue that was comfortable for pedestrians at all times. And as for looks, if they couldn't discount the present-day jumble of canvas flaps, and rolls, and slides that adorn the fronts of stores, sometimes down when they ought to be up, and sometimes up when they ought to be down, then we are badly off. Some new fangled city council years ago started the hue and cry that all poles to support signs or awnings should be removed from the edges of sidewalks, and other towns and cities followed like sheep through a hole in the hedge. None of them know why there should not be poles along the edge of sidewalks, and none of them can give any reason why pedestrians should not have a covered way to walk in when it would harm no one and would not injure the business or looks of any store or street. Paso Robles is a little slow about getting rid of her romantic looking old wooden awnings, but for our part we're sorry the styles have changed so that she had to do it.

The forest ranger in the San Gabriel Canyon reports that the waters of the creek are almost ink black, says the Ontario Report. If there were a print shop anywhere up the canyon, we'd think it might just be the proprietor washing the office towel in the creek, but the ranger says it's only the rains washing over the burned area of the recent forest fire.

The school board at Atascadero bought $3500 worth of Liberty Bonds during the war, and now finds that it was a technical violation of the state law forbidding school funds to be used for anything but school purposes, and the school trustees are defendants of a law suit. Wasn't it one of Dickens' characters in Oliver Twist that burst forth one time with his opinion of some English law, "If that is the eye of the law, then the law is a ass, a idiot."

ORANGE SHOW IN SPIRIT OF UNIONS

Citrus fruit growers, chambers of commerce and civic organizations throughout Southern California have joined the National Orange Show executive committee in refusing to heed the intolerant demand of radical union labor leaders that the exposition be moved from Urbis Springs at San Bernardino because of labor's boycott on the Pacific Electric, from which the park was leased by the Orange Show. The exposition will open on schedule at Urbis Park on February 13 and close on February 23. Is the reply the Orange Show has sent to the leaders who announced they would oppose the Orange Show. Resenting the effort of the union leaders to dictate the location of their annual exposition, citrus fruit growers and organizations are pouring into the Orange Show office their approval of the stand taken by the show directors and chambers of commerce and other organizations in Los Angeles, Orange county, San Bernardino, Redlands and other cities have joined in the campaign to make the Orange Show a greater success than ever before.

Movement to have every chamber of commerce and citrus fruit association in the state to purchase 100 family tickets to the exposition is one form of the reply to the radical leaders.

The Commercial Federation of California announced its support of the Orange Show in a full page advertisement.

In San Bernardino city such organizations as the chamber of commerce, merchants' association, Rotary Club, county automobile trade association, farm bureau and others tendered their support to the Orange Show in resolutions of approval.

Urbis Springs is a park, beautified with typical California flowers and trees. It has a big lake and lawns and many spots where visitors to the show may have picnic lunches and rest. One of the particular advantages is the facilities for entertainment of the throngs outside of the big tents—places where they can rest and then return to complete their view of the exposition. The plan is that one admission paid on entrance to the park will serve for the entire period visitors are within the grounds.

PREST-O-LITE "GREEN SEAL" IS MAKING BIG HIT

With the big Prest-O-Lite factory at Indianapolis working at full capacity to keep abreast with the rapidly increasing national demand for the Prest-O-Lite Green Seal battery, local dealers in Southern California are particularly fortunate, under the strained production crisis, in that this community has priority rights of delivery, owing to the great use of storage batteries in this locality and due to the fact that local distributors south of Fresno have all placed advance orders of sufficient size to warrant a continued supply.

The "green seal" feature of the Prest-O-Lite is indeed an innovation in battery manufacture, has within the past few months virtually revolutionized the battery business of the nation and greatly strained the production capacity of the great Prest-O-Lite factories at Indianapolis. The "green seal" feature is simply this: the battery is made at the factory and shipped to the local distributor without being filled with water, acid or chemicals. The result is that it is placed in the user's car, filled with water and acid and receives its first charge and it is kept "green" until it is ready for use. It does not begin to deteriorate until it is in actual use.

Under the ordinary plan of battery manufacture the acids, chemicals and distilled water is placed in the battery at the factory before shipping. If that battery spends one month in transit and lies on a dealer's shelf from six to nine months before being sold it is that much worn out" the day it is placed in your car as the action of the acid on the sensitive plates of the battery has a deteriorating effect regardless of the fact that that battery carries no charge.

That the motoring public is fully alert to all new improvements and innovations of motor car betterment has been fully demonstrated in the instantaneous response to the green seal appeal of the Prest-O-Lite and by the great quantity of sales that have been piled up by dealers throughout Southern California.

TOURIST TRAVEL THRU HERE REACHES TOP MARK

Westbound tourist travel seemed to be at flood tide Monday, when the Santa Fe Limited, No. 3, passed through San Bernardino in four sections, while the Salt Lake's No. 201 was in three sections, all of them crowded to the last berth. What would be regularly two trains was therefore expanded into seven trains, and at the Santa Fe station it was estimated that from 1800 to 2000 passengers were carried into Southern California on these trains alone, in addition to all other regular trains of the day.

HOTPOINT FACTORY AT ONTARIO WILL ENLARGE

of the iron, but Mr. Richardson solved the problem and today Hotpoint irons are known wherever electric current is used.

The mechanical end of the business was comparatively easy for Mr. Richardson to handle, but the financial end was a problem he was not familiar with and as a result Willis H. Booth of Los Angeles became his associate.

From one appliance to another, from one building to another, the concern grew until it became the largest manufacturer of household appliances exclusively in the world. Under Messrs. Richardson and Booth it competed with other organizations and won out. Showing the position this pair held in the manufacture of household appliances, when the great merger was made several years ago, Mr. Booth was made chairman of the board of directors of the Edison Electric Appliance Company and Mr. Richardson chairman of the manufacturing committee.

All Are Interested

But Messrs. Richardson and Booth have always been generous and fair in making it known that the splendid success of the Hotpoint would not have been possible without the complete cooperation of every member of the organization. The whole organization has been known as the Hotpoint family. This spirit of mutual helpfulness runs all through the plant. One for all, all for one has built up a solidarity that spells success.

The cordial relations existing among all the members of the Hotpoint family is attested in many ways. Not long ago Mrs. Katherine Phelps Edison complimented the Hotpoint organization for its advanced position in working out the perplexing problems confronting every industrial organization. There is a works council consisting of 18 which handles organization problems. The management appoints nine of these, while the employees, by secret ballot, choose the other nine.

Hotpoint Happy Family

This conference has resulted in very harmonious relations. Of course, there must be a head, as in any business, but every member of the organization has a part in the matters affecting him. The Hotpoint plant is a model of efficiency, but the Hotpoint organization is a group of very human beings—a huge, harmonious, happy family. Whether you meet the members of the Hotpoint family in the factory where work is the word, at the Hotpoint club house in the evening there is cheer, contents and good nature. The personnel of the organization has been a matter of pride to all in it from the youngest to the oldest. Of course, Mr. Richardson as works manager is active head here, but he has to spend part of his time in Chicago, when he is represented here by John H. Kefman. Percy H. Booth is sales manager for the western division. P. H. Vandenberg is superintendent of the factory and F. H. Wallihan is in charge of the personnel department.

Mrs. Clara B. Dossinger, Mr. Richardson's secretary, a young woman who has developed into a fine business woman with practically all the details of the big organization at her fingers' ends, is typical of the high class character of the women in the organization, who number about 40 per cent of the total.
